DESTINATION

On the southeastern coast of China – 60 kilometres (37 miles) west of Hong Kong – Macau was initially settled by Chinese farmers and fishermen. In 1550, when Portuguese merchants reached Macau, the city became the first European colony in Asia, creating a one-of-a-kind cultural mix. In 1999, Macau reverted to Chinese rule as a Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China.

Although only 28.6 square kilometres (11 square miles) in size – with a population of some 531,400 people – the Macau Peninsula offers plentiful attractions, activities and entertainment for visitors. A unique fusion of East and West, the Historic Centre of Macau is a designated World Heritage Site, with narrow cobblestone streets, colourful Chinese shops, incense-filled temples and distinctive colonial Macanese architecture.

In contrast to its historic core, the Cotai Strip – which links the islands of Taipa and Coloane – is developing into a fast-paced gaming destination with an atmosphere akin to the Las Vegas Strip. The area features almost 30 world-class casinos and themed hotels, providing abundant choices for food, entertainment, shopping and conventions.

WEATHER

Macau's climate is fairly tropical. The temperature ranges from 18°C to 32°C (64°F to 90°F). Humidity levels are high, between 73% and 90%, with most rainfall happening during the summer months.

LOCAL ATTRACTIONS AND ACTIVITIES

At Four Seasons, you enjoy a unique vantage point from which to explore the sights, sounds and experiences around you. The surrounding area offers a wide range of sightseeing activities. Most are located on Macau Peninsula and easily reached by car, after crossing the bridge from Taipa to Macau. We hope the highlights of local attractions below help simplify your planning. Please let us know how else we can assist you.
